Gallery at the Brown features “Urban Dance Project” by Louisville photographer Kevin Talley

Art show in historic Brown Hotel runs Dec. 6 to Jan. 12

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (Nov. 21, 2013) --- Louisville photographer Kevin Talley will present photographs inspired by the art of dance at a new Gallery at the Brown show from Friday, Dec. 6 through Sunday, Jan. 12. To celebrate the opening, a reception will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 6.

Talley’s visual art works, entitled “Urban Dance Project,” will be on display along with select “Equine Series” photographs. Talley photographed dancers from Louisville and Lexington performing various types of dance including ballet and aerial silks around the city for the exhibit.

The Louisville native was a fashion photographer in Miami and Los Angeles before returning to his hometown for this project where he strives to show the many levels of beauty and art that surround the people of Louisville every day. Talley worked with professional dancers to create stunning photographs at local landmarks like the Big Four Bridge and Muhammad Ali Center.

Gallery at The Brown features local artists to bring awareness to Kentucky’s visual arts scene. Located on the first floor of the hotel, Gallery at the Brown Hotel is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free.

Note: The high-resolution version of Talley’s photograph shown above is available upon request.
