

TEXAS Just a mention of the word evokes feelings of independence, friendliness and hospitality. Here in Central Texas, we value our green, gently rolling countryside, blue skies and starry nights. So much so that we built a hotel that resembles this place, our favorite part of our favorite state. Stella means “Star” in Latin and is a beacon in the night for dreamers, travelers and adventurers.

Our ancestors settled this land with little more than faith, hope and grit. Living off the land, a campfire was an essential tool to provide heat and cook food. But it was so much more. Campfires were, and still are, points of light that push back the surrounding darkness. Campfires are gathering places, welcoming us to a circle of friends where food, warmth and storytelling combine to create memorable moments.

At our Campfire, the story is just the same. We are your gathering place; inviting, comfortable and familiar, where southern hospitality and authentic Texan cuisine surround your family and friends. Our fusion of local flavors, sprawling patio, and central Texan-inspired interiors layer together to build a place that we can welcome you into again and again. A place that is your own.
