

GARDEN & GUN

What's New in Charleston

Seven new spots to eat, drink, and explore in the Holy City

by CAROLINE SANDERS

Citrus Club

The Dewberry Hotel began charming visitors in 2017 with its 155 luxuriously appointed rooms and chic lobby bar. But its rooftop, which boasts some of the best views of the city, has long been limited to private events. That changed with the recent opening of the Citrus Club, a tropical terrace lounge on top of the eight-story midcentury gem. Non-guests can make reservations to enjoy dressed up bar snacks and frozen citrus-infused drinks specifically designed by beverage director Ryan Casey to strike the perfect balance between beachy and sophisticated. thedewberrycharleston.com

