

The Santa Fe experience™

ONLY AT HOTEL SANTA FE

MUSEUMS AND CULTURE

For nearly 400 years, Santa Fe has been a vibrant mix of Spanish, Native American and Mexican cultures. This day explores both historic and contemporary cultural experiences through food, museums, and galleries.

Breakfast Tia Sophia's 210 W San Francisco St

Start your day where the phrase “breakfast burrito” was coined. Santa Feans have been eating eggs and bacon in a tortilla for a long time, but Tia Sophia’s put the breakfast burrito on the menu in the 1970s.

Visit New Mexico History Museum 113 Lincoln Ave

Wander to the first museum, New Mexico History Museum, to see 3 ½ floors of exhibitions that tell the stories that made the American West.

Shop the portal at Palace of the Governors 105 W Palace Ave

The portal is reserved for the sale of Native American crafts as a means of preserving the culture of New Mexico’s pueblo and tribal cultures.

Visit St. Francis Cathedral 131 Cathedral Pl

Head over to the cathedral to see a great work of art and architecture. Feel the history as you walk around the grounds of St. Francis Cathedral, the mother church of the Santa Fe Diocese. All are welcome to visit the church. Drop a dollar in the slot and place a candle for a loved one inside.

Visit Georgia O'Keeffe Museum

217 Johnson St

Visit the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum to find insight into the artist's paintings and learn more about her creative process and the landscapes that inspired her.

Coffee Holy Spirit Espresso (Outdoor seating only)

225 W San Francisco St

Grab a quick espresso or tea from Holy Spirit Espresso, a funky coffee counter in an old elevator shaft.

Museum Hill

710 Camino Lejo

- Visit the Wheelwright Museum of the American Indian
Drive or take a rideshare service to Museum Hill. Your first stop is the Wheelwright Museum of the American Indian, offering exhibitions of contemporary and historic Native American art.
- Lunch Museum Hill Café
For a sit-down lunch, walk over to the anything-but-average Museum Hill Café.
- Visit the Museum of International Folk Art
Walk to the Museum of International Folk Art. If you only have time for one museum tour, this is the one you should visit. This is one of the best folk art collections in the world. The museum also features a can't-miss gift shop.
- Visit the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture
Walk to the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture which features exhibits of Native art and artifacts.

Drinks Cowgirl BBQ

319 S Guadalupe St

Head to Cowgirl BBQ for a quick drink at the bar before dinner.

Dinner Amaya

1501 Paseo de Peralta

Dine at one of the best restaurants in Santa Fe, right here at the hotel, which features modern, seasonal takes on Native American food.

Admire our Collection of Native American Artwork

You're staying in Santa Fe's only Native American owned hotel, so finish the day by looking at the fabulous artwork in the Hacienda. The Hacienda features artwork from all 19 New Mexico pueblos. The butler will let you in.
