Quivira Golf Club — Los Cabos, Mexico

If your ultimate summer fantasy is getting a hole-in-one on a course that would test the pros, it's time to cross the border to Los Cabos, Mexico.

In recent years, this area has become a world-class golf destination, thanks in part to Quivira Golf Club. Since it opened in 2014, the Jack Nicklaus-designed course at the tip of the Baja Peninsula has received major accolades from seasoned golfers.

That's partly because few courses are built into such a breathtaking, dramatic landscape of windswept dunes and sheer granite cliffs that soar above the sapphire-blue water of the Pacific Ocean.

Play starts at the beach and climbs progressively higher into the seaside cliffs.

Quivira Golf Club is open to Quivira residents and guests at one of four Pueblo Bonito resorts. The closest is Pueblo Bonito Pacifica, which recently opened The Towers at Pacifica, a five-star, oceanfront property.
