More Marvels Planned at Quivira

Eight years after the first course at Quivira Los Cabos, a design by Jack Nicklaus that was widely hailed, exciting news that a second course is in the making. Groundbreaking is expected by Christmas, with a design forged over a stunning landscape characterized by rolling desert foothills, vast valleys, and winding arroyos, coupled with panoramic views of the Pacific Ocean. “The first golf course at Quivira is a spectacular layout playing across a remarkable piece of property,” Nicklaus said. “Now, I am excited that design is well underway on the second course at Quivira, which should be stunning and equally as spectacular.”
