Holiday Pop-Up from SF Etsy

Wednesday, December 11, 2019 - 5 p.m. – 8 p.m.

The Bellevue & Belvedere Ballrooms off The Marker Hotel Lobby, 501 Geary St.,
San Francisco, CA 94102

From SF Etsy: San Francisco Bay Area Etsy Team and The Marker San Francisco:

"Celebrate San Francisco's vibrant artistic communities, including those in the Tenderloin and Union Square, at a special holiday pop-up event held by SF Etsy and The Marker Hotel on Wednesday, December 11, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

"Enjoy complimentary admission as well as wine and house-made cracker jacks from the hotel's noted Tratto restaurant while exploring items from more than 30 local artists, jewelry makers, cosmetic lines, photographers and more.

"Selected directly by the SF Etsy Street Team based on uniqueness and quality of work – and timed for holiday shopping – highlights of the SF Etsy Haute Holidays Marketplace at The Marker include: bohemian jewelry maker Taneesi, wood prints from California coastal photographer Cuppa Fog, natural skincare Earth Love Cosmetics, custom ornaments and jewelry from The Weekend Store, and modern embroidery shop Rosanna Diggs, among many others.

"Additionally, the talented Christina Choi will provide mini makeovers featuring her new beauty line. Each makeover lasts 15 minutes and is $35 per session. Reserve your makeover via Eventbrite. The marketplace itself is complimentary and not ticketed.

"Also available for purchase is the first ever SF Etsy coloring book, featuring designs from 48 local artists and benefitting San Francisco Safe House, Larkin Street Youth and SF Fire Toys Program. The pop-up event will also include a silent auction for printed artwork from the coloring book.

"SF Etsy partnered with the newly renovated Marker Hotel for this special event due to the property's commitment to local artists, including its rotating art exhibit curated by Jacqueline McGee and SFMOMA Artists Gallery. SF Etsy is a collection of more than 2,200 Esty sellers in the San Francisco Bay Area, and strives to support its community through hosting local shows and events."
