CONDE NAST TRAVELER READERS' CHOICE AWARDS, 2017

“The Wentworth was built in 1886 as the private home of a wealthy cotton merchant. The staff is incredibly considerate: Feeling sick? They'll all sign a get-well card and send it with a plush robe.”

CONDE NAST TRAVELER, OCTOBER 2017

“Built by a cotton baron, this stately Victorian residence-turned-hotel pierced the city's skyline long before its zoning board enacted height limits, affording spectacular views of the city's steeple-pierced skyline from the mansion's rooftop cupola. Tiffany stained glass windows and palatial bedrooms, plus state-of-the-art marble bathrooms, combine the best of old and new worlds. Enjoy complimentary breakfast on a sunny porch, or evening sherry and hors d'oeuvres in the darkly paneled parlor by a roaring fireplace.”
