

Left to right: Raymundo O'Campo, Landscape Manager
Andrew Stegen, General Manager
Mary Beth Seamands, Director of Sales & Marketing
Todd Sicolo, Executive Chef/F&B Director
Brittania Tobin, Director of Revenue Management

THE FACES OF The Soul of the Southwest

WESTWARD LOOK WYNDHAM GRAND RESORT & SPA

Westward Look Wyndham Grand Resort & Spa is located on 80 acres in the heart of Northwest Tucson and offers the beauty and magic that only the Sonoran Desert can provide. Steeped in history and built in 1912, Westward Look offers a charm and authenticity that is truly one of a kind. Set at the base on the Santa Catalina Mountains, this resort recently has undergone a $10 million renovation, including meeting spaces and all 241 guest rooms. At 650 square feet, the oversized guest rooms offer newly updated luxury and size unparalleled in Tucson. Enjoy tennis, horseback riding, sand volleyball, dining alfresco on the GOLD or Lookout Bar & Grill patio, or just relax and be pampered in the Sonoran Spa. Take a meditative walk through the labyrinth, a guided Nature Walk with Landscape Manager Raymundo O'Campo, hike the acres of trails and enjoy the desert flora and fauna, or watch the sunset from poolside or your private patio or balcony. If relaxation, health and wellness are what you're looking for, the yoga classes and mindful menu options could be for you. If a more indulgent weekend is your plan, the Wine Dinners and Chef Special Menus with Executive Chef Todd Sicolo might be more your taste.

With an expansive Chef's Garden on site and fruit-producing avocado and mango trees, the Westward Look landscape and culinary teams are here to delight your senses. Offering scheduled or self-guided tours of the garden and surrounding desert is one of the many hidden treasures at the resort. Cultivating menus that use resort-grown and locally sourced menu items is key to the dishes created by Chef Sicolo. With dining options in two restaurants along with poolside and In Room Dining, we offer many options for enjoying the menu. The newly renovated meeting space offers abundant natural light as well as unique outdoor spaces. Consider a rooftop reception with 360-degree views of Tucson's city lights and the surrounding mountains, or a meeting in the ballroom with 16-foot ceilings and floor-to-ceiling windows. Whether you are here for a weekend getaway or planning a conference or social event, the staff is here to exceed your expectations. Westward Look Resort, the original Soul of the Southwest.

245 E. INA RD., TUCSON, AZ 85704; (520) 297-1151;
WESTWARDLOOK.COM