

RHUM ROOM

ESTATE RHUMS

The zemi is a deity or ancestral spirit worshipped by the local Taino tribes that once inhabited the Caribbean.

While the word Zemi refers to the Gods, Goddesses, Spirits and Ancestors that the Taino People worshipped, it also refers to the Wooden or Stone Effigies which were sculpted by hand to depict these Gods in visual form.

The Taino People at their peak were a population of 1 to 3 million whose territory spread across The Caribbean Region.

They were a peaceful people who made significant contributions to the English Language with common words like 'Hammock', 'Barbeque', 'Canoe' and 'Tobacco' all originating from the Taino Culture.

The cocktail menu we feature at the Rhum Room it is inspired by six Zemi Gods and Goddesses.

Time Well Spent

Inspired by the God of Labour - recreation brothers Guilen, based on taino art, was carrying in his hands a “potiza” to store water and fermenting the wine produced with the juice of guayiga. They were bought by women to men as a declaration of love .

mount gay XO infused sea grape, st germain elderflower liqueur, fermented grape cordial, dry white port, ginger ale, elderflower

Guabanacex Sour

Inspired by Zemi Guabanacex, the daughter of Atabey, the Goddess of storms and destruction. A way to remember the taino Gods is by eating papaya, guava or cassava.
We don't want to upset Guabanacex do we?

brugal 1888, passion fruit syrup, tepache of papaya and pineapple,
